Privacy-policy:

- Because we are an international organization, IFCM has a firm policy that the addresses of all members are never shared with anyone, even the membership itself.
- We do give the possibility to our members to contact each other through the IFCM online Database. However, email addresses are not revealed and the contact, done by clicking to a 'send a message' button, can be ignored by the receiver.
- Members are asked when they join and/or when they renew, if they want their email address added to this database. They have the opportunity to opt out.
